

charlie@rawhidebaseball.com

Charlie was born a Yankee fan in New Jersey, but grew up an Angels fan living in Orange, California. After earning his degree from Ripon College in Wisconsin, he returned home to start a career in baseball working for the Rancho Cucamonga Quakes. Eventually, however, Charlie left baseball to help with his family's business. Several years later, the need to get back into baseball became evident and in winter of 2011 Charlie joined the Rawhide front office staff. He is married with two young sons. Outside of work and family time, Charlie volunteers on the Board of Directors for the Tulare County Library Foundation, and proudly serves as a member of West Visalia Kiwanis and Visalia Breakfast Lions.

College: Ripon College, WI

Hometown: Born in Morristown, NJ, grew up in Orange, CA

Favorite Sports Team: Yankees (will root for the Angels when appropriate)

Most Hated Sports Team: Red Sox

Favorite Meal: Sausage Rolls

Favorite Movie: Major League

The one thing you would need on a desert island: My family

Song That Pumps You Up: Disconnected by Face to Face

Nickname: Soap

Favorite Subject in School: English

Highlight of Sports Career: Winning the Pitch Hit and Run National Championship when I was 11. The prize was an all-expenses paid trip to game one of the 1993 World Series with my father.